

Table of Contents

A Note from the Editors	v
Hidetosi Sirai, Setsuko Arita, Makiko Hirakawa, Shunji Inagaki, Masahiko Minami, Yuriko Oshima-Takane, Yasuhiro Shirai, and Yasushi Terao
List of Contributors	viii
I. PLENARY	1
The L2 Child as Arbitrator	3
Bonnie D. Schwartz
On The Usage-Based Model of Language Acquisition	31
Yukio Otsu
II. INVITED SYMPOSIUM	33
Word Inflections in Second Language Acquisition: Dual-Processing Models vs. Connectionist Model
The Dual Mechanism for Processing English and Japanese Verbs	35
Katsuo Tamaoka
A Connectionist Model of Lexical Segmentation	45
Shogo Makioka
III. GENERAL SESSION PAPERS	57
< First Language Acquisition >	59
The Effect of Touching Object Parts on Learning Novel Object Part Names Among Young Children and Adults	61
Harumi Kobayashi
Japanese Children's Acquisition of the Accusative Case: Evidence for an Interim Stage Preceding Morphological Case Acquisition	77
Noriko Iwasaki
< Second Language Acquisition and Bilingualism >	95
A Comparative Study of Motivation: Foreign Language Learners of Spanish, French, German and Japanese in Tertiary Education	97
Fumie Kato

Factors Associated With the Notion Among Japanese Elementary School Teachers That Native Speakers Are Ideal Language Teachers Yuko Goto Butler	113
Activity Transition in a Student-Centered Classroom, Involving a Case of Language Switch Eric Hauser	131
Predictors of Attrition and Retention in English as a Foreign Language (EFL): Japanese Adult Learners Kimie Yamamoto	145
Phonological Recoding in Intermediate Japanese Learners of English Jeffrey D. Witzel and Naoko O. Witzel	163
Viewpoint Setting in L1 and L2 Japanese Narratives Yuko Nakahama and Yuka Kurihara	179
Are Recasts With Prosodic Emphasis More Effective Than Regular Recasts? A Time-Series Study of Two Japanese FL Learners Ritsuko Narita	195
Grading Difficulties of Tasks by Analyzing Differences of Performance Among Speakers Naoki Takei and Kanji Akahori	211
< Phonology, Syntax, Semantics, and Discourse >	225
Eastern Catalan Vowel Reduction is Characterized by Raising – Not Centralization Dylan Herrick	227
A Venturous Approach to Japanese Scrambling in Terms of the Minimalist Theory of Movement Shin'ya Uchishiba	243
Analysis of Context-Dependent Interpretation of Noun Phrases Ryusuke Kikuchi and Hidetosi Sirai	259
A Study of Responses to Nonverbal Expression of Needs Mikiko Suzuki	277
Doing Otherness: Identity and Conversation Analysis Erica Zimmerman	293
Abstracts in Japanese	309